WHAT TO EXPECT
Wilderness Canoe Base provides a place where all people can live in God’s grace with a respect for creation, a simple lifestyle, and community. Island camp is a wonderful opportunity to spend a week at our Base camp enjoying all it has to offer. Tucked away on two Seagull Lake islands, our camp is situated at the border of the pristine Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness. Home to moose, black bear, eagles, loon, and some of the best fresh water fishing in America, this setting provides a rare opportunity for meditation, solitude and community building. Whether you are new to the BWCAW or looking for a centering week to focus on team building and relaxation, spending a week on the islands of WCB can be truly transformational!

YOUR TIME AT CAMP
During your Island Camp experience, you will be assigned a Wilderness Canoe Base guide who will lead you in adventures, Bible study, and a variety of fun activities your group chooses to do. With a wide array of activities and great cabins to sleep in each night, Island Camp can be a great introduction to the BWCAW.

ISLAND CAMP ACTIVITIES
Island camp is the most flexible of our trip options. During your week-long WCB adventure, we will tailor your activities to fit your group’s desires. Your week could include rock-climbing, nature hikes and activities, canoeing into the BWCAW on day trips or going on overnights at campsites, campfires, saunas, Bible studies, Vespers evening services, swimming, games, berry picking, fishing, and so much more! You could also choose to make your week into a retreat, focused on quiet solitude and reflection or spend a week doing intentional community building. Island Camp can also be a great environment for a youth leadership retreat. Truly, there are endless possibilities!

Whether this is your group’s first time up in the BWCAW or you are returning visitors, Island Camp is a great choice for any group that would like to experience camp in a new way, spend time with Base staff, and do activities that they haven’t tried before. Whatever your group decides to do with your week, you will be sure to have time for meaningful reflection and time to examine the experiences and lessons of living in God’s creation.
